1. Between 24 September and 15 October, Chinese Communist, North Korean, and Soviet military leaders held a series of conferences in P'yongyang. The Soviet representatives included 1 army major general, 1 air force colonel, 1 army colonel, 4 army lieutenant colonels, and 10 enlisted men. The enlisted men were drivers and radio operators.
2. North Korean staff officers of the North Korean Army General Headquarters in Kangdong (126-05, 39-09) (BU-4837) conducted the Soviet and Chinese Communist officers on a tour of the front lines.
3. Combined Chinese Communist Army and North Korean Army General Headquarters presented a complete study of North Korean ground and air defenses to the conferees. The following decisions were made by the senior representatives of the three countries:
